

Connect for User Communities

Bridge the gap between users in SaaS or mobile app user communities.

The Challenge SaaS/Mobile Apps Face

Growing your app's user base goes well beyond building a great product. Customers want to feel and measure the impact your solution has on their job, life or team - to justify the investment of money and time.

Fostering this feeling is more than an onboarding or enablement challenge. Paying for a costly customer engagement tool won't address the problem either.

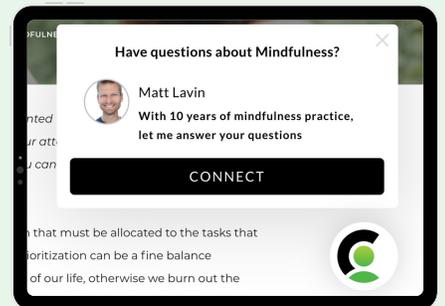

You must be able to quickly address niche problems that arise and workflow snags that impact effectiveness, as well as quickly provide recipes for success and ways of measuring that impact.

Providing this level of customer and consultative support requires a significant investment organizations don't need to make.

Enter LifeOmic Connect

LifeOmic Connect provides a channel for connecting users with curated experts to provide a monetization opportunity for software and app providers. Connect manages billing, scheduling and connecting parties to eliminate overhead of this new channel, allowing organizations to jump straight to helping their users.

It's like providing ad hoc user conference sessions, without the overhead. Avoid unresolved frustration and increase retention by providing an on-demand channel directing users to the experts in your app community.

Increase engagement, retention & community

App Power Users

Allow users access to your most vocal and engaged customers to get the most out of your app.

Subject Matter Experts

Give your user base access to consultants and SMEs to improve their integration of your solution into their day to day.

Paid Support

Allow users the option to dive deep into product snags with a paid support solution that sits between customer support & managed services

Create Your Free Connect Account Today

LifeOmic Connect is easy to implement and free to use - Connect earns a small commission on successful connections made.